

Kindertons open up three new teams to help Niche markets

Kindertons Accident Management based in Crewe have established 3 new specialist departments to help their clients increase their business.

The three departments are all managed by experienced Kindertons staff who were promoted to these new positions

Specialist Taxi and Private hire team, run by Richard Goodwin who has several years experience in Accident Management, will focus on helping Private Hire companies obtain an immediate replacement vehicle when they have been involved in the loss of their vehicles for any reason.

Repair management team, run by Alan Brown and Scott Logan who are both specialists in helping clients reduce the hassle and inconvenience experienced when they have been unfortunate enough to be involved in an accident by providing a full service from notification through to settlement

Repair Co-ordinator, Aimee Mitchell, has been appointed to help Kindertons' network of repairers increase and control the volumes of work sent to them by Kindertons.

The new teams are all internal appointments, commenting on the establishment of the teams Shaun Ellison MD of Kindertons said " We have set these teams up following discussions with our Clients. These new teams will help our Clients, Brokers, and Bodyshops grow their business and reduce their administration, which in turn will obviously help us; all round it's a very positive step for everyone, In addition we are pleased to see our staff development continue with these four promotions"
